WATER WORKS.

The destruction by fire on New Year's morning of the old Fisher tavern right in the heart of the city and the narrow escape of the whole business part of the city, west of Clover Creek, is a warning stronger than any words, of the necessity for water works and a fire system.

Usually a high wind adds to the danger from fire, but it proved our salvation in this instance. It blew the flames away from and saved Adkins's livery stable. If the stable had gone, nothing could have saved the Ferrigo dwelling and grocery store and Wm. & Co.'s shops. These would have burned the Breckenridge Bank and Fisher's drug store and hall, and where the fire would have stopped, no man can tell. The solid character of the bank building, Fisher's drug store, being metal roofed brick buildings with iron frames, enabled them to resist the heat sufficiently for the huckster brigade to take them.

All this was plain to every observer. By the merest chance, a general conflagration destroying property amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, was averted.

How easy the fire in the old tavern building could have been damped down, and confined with little, if any, danger to surrounding property, if a few streams of water could have laid hold on it. And here slowly certain it is, if it had been any other building on Wall street that was burning, that it could not have been checked in its mad career.

No arguments are needed, then, to a system of water works is only pig-headedness.

After we are all burned out, then we will have them. Such is the wisdom usually displayed by municipal government.

Let the city council take steps to ascertain the cost of a good system. We have competent men in our midst to do this work. Then go to the work in a business way and adopt the best means to provide the water works. All talk about not being able to do it, if we are able to have the property, we are able to protect it.

We need not listen to every adventurer who comes along and proposes to do the work taking all the advantages to himself. There is a certain business way to do things. Find out what we want and the practical way to get it. We have the river, and an elevation in the city. We have the water in abundance and the pressure to throw it over the highest buildings. Let us quit kicking like geese as we have been doing. We want water, not the idle breath of a pack of ignorant and stupid fellows. None of us know what we are talking about and never will know till we take the proper steps to learn something. The council should not delay in inaugurating a campaign of education."

SEATOR John G. Carlisle, referring to the Farmers' Alliance says, "The Alliance 'is the legitimate child of the Republican party. It is the offspring of the Republican tariff idea that the Government should take care of all business enterprises that can not or will not take care of themselves. This Government is not an elementary institution, nor does it pretend to remedy business failures. Although some farmers have for years received low prices for their products, they are far from being poor. Their fathers were. I was born and brought up on a farm and until I was nineteen I worked on a farm in summer and went to school in the winter. During my boyhood I never saw a buggy or a carriage or a horse-drawn carriage. The farm products were carried to market on wagons drawn by oxen and my father used to haul his wheat and tobacco twenty-one miles to market in this way. It took him two days and nights for every load. Now many farmers have their own horses and buggies and carriages and at any meetings of Kentucky farmers you will see great numbers of horse-drawn carriages."

The election contests in New York reveal the fact that even the new secret ballot may be used fraudulently. There are many ways in which the ballot can be marked by the voter. They may be marked so as to be counted by the party opposed to the voter's principles or marked so they are not counted at all, the offending officer not being endangered in either instance. It is now suggested that a bi-partisan board be appointed to examine tickets after they have passed through the hands of the Clerk. Perhaps the old way was the best after all.

Ten daily accounts published in the newspapers of railroad accidents and the sacrificing of so many human lives, by them, has now caused to startle the average reader. A few years ago it was otherwise, but now to take up a daily paper and find that the most prominent bit of news given is not an account of a railroad smash up is something phenomenal. There is to be the American Congress sitting at Washington and state Legislatures assembling all around us and not once to they call for an investigation into the careless management of railroads.

This is the fifth time Mr. James E. Stone has been elected Assistant Clerk of the Legislature. Mr. Stone has always acquitted himself with the greatest credit, and is regarded as the best recording clerk in Kentucky.

The Republicans of Dubuque have had a hard time settling down on a Postmaster. Capt. Ed. Farley has finally been appointed.

Every now and then a ruffian gets in his work on a town marshal. The latest victim was Marshal Taylor Vane, of Sharpsburg, who was stabbed to death by a negro.

It is said that President Harrison is considering the name of Judge William Lindsay, of Frankfort, in connection with the vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

On the thirty-fourth ballot the Hon. W. M. Moore, of Harrison county, was nominated by the Democratic caucus for Speaker of the House. Green R. Keller was nominated for clerk and James E. Stone for assistant clerk. John Stuart, of Frankfort, was elected as a member of the House and J. C. McWhorter, of Louisville, was elected as a member of the Senate. The next thing will be the appointment of committees, and then the Kentucky Legislature will get down to business.

It is nonsense for newspapers to begin discussing Gen. Grant's ability to represent the Fourth district in Congress as if he had no political experience and was just making his debut. There are few men in the district who have given more attention to politics within the past few years than Gen. Grant, and he is certainly as quick to see a need and devise a means as any man, as his record will show. Besides his knowledge of politics he has a good knowledge of men and will make him a power in the race for Congress.

THE LEAP YEAR HOP.

One of the most fashionable and brilliant events that has occurred in this city for a long time was the Leap Year hop given in Fisher's Hall last Friday night. It was the long talked of event of the season, and as a matter of course it drew a large and select crowd of pleasure seekers both young and old. When the young ladies take a hand no such work as fall is known to them. It is not written in their vocabulary. "Snow, rain and sleet" does not in the least interfere with their plans or prevent them from carrying to a successful issue whatever they have in hand.

It snowed, it rained, it poured, but the young ladies were there, in all their beauty and dazzling loveliness. There were about two hundred, dressed in the height of fashion making the occasion a very brilliant and successful one. The young ladies take a hand no such work as fall is known to them. It is not written in their vocabulary. "Snow, rain and sleet" does not in the least interfere with their plans or prevent them from carrying to a successful issue whatever they have in hand.

Everything was provided to make the occasion a splendid success, which it was. The hall was lavishly decorated, the brown boxes, furnished the music and none can furnish better, danced pretty programs and order of dance by their daily conduct pencils, a splendid luncheon, and the most exquisite taste, in fact nothing could have been added to more effectively enhance the pleasure and joy of the light hearts and winning faces of those present.

Indeed, 'tis true, as an old timer remarked it was the nicest affair that ever took place in Cloverport.

The costumes worn by the ladies were superbly elegant and in the latest styles and fashions. The gentlemen too, as we have before remarked, were dressed in the height of fashion, and as a young lady said looked perfectly lovely in the swallow tails, bow cuts and patent leather pumps.

The following were the costumes: Miss Lila Adams, Lewistown, black lace pink trimmings.

Miss Lila Richardson, Louisville, red silk.

Miss Maudie Duncan, Haverhill, pink silk trimmed with velvet and feathers.

Miss Lillian Street, Haverhill, cream and blue.

Miss Mary Young, Morganfield, red silk, jet trimmings.

Miss Fred Crittenden, Frankfort, cream silk, jet trimmings.

Miss Nora, Louisville, street costume.

Miss Kate Ogelsby, street costume.

This Hall, red crepe de chene.

Miss Lila Hall, black net over yellow silk.

Miss Fiza, blue crepe.

Miss Kate Boyd, white lace over blue silk.

Miss Lella Newsum, pines dress of pink allusion and children.

Miss Pearl Miller, blue silk.

The Christmas tree given at the Baptist church was a success in every particular. The presents were numerous and but few children left the house without something.

School Superintendent James Miller played the part of Santa Claus, to the satisfaction of everybody.

Every citizen should have a good word to say for his town at the beginning of this New Year. Hardinsburg is a good place for business, and it is strange you always hear some fellow running her out as a dead town. Whenever there's any trouble we come in for our share and the people know it. What's the same thing the chronic kickers to be always kicking. Go to work and give us a rest.

THE ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE HARDINSBURG FISH AND GAME CLUB.

The most elegant social event here of the season was the banquet given at Board's Hotel last Friday evening, by the members of the Hardinsburg Fish and Game Club. About sixty invitations were sent out, and covers were laid in the spacious dining hall for the forty that number of guests, but more. The supper was a substantial repast, the tables being covered with most everything that was tempting and rare to the appetite of the most fastidious. One attractive feature were the dishes of quail served. The club in anticipation of the affair had killed eighty or a hundred.

The members of the club presided and waited upon the guests as they arrived at the hotel, supper began at 8 o'clock and lasted until 10. The dining room was appropriately decorated for the occasion, the hunting garb and outfit of members being placed in different portions of the room. There was a stack of arms placed at a side entrance gave a decidedly pleasing effect to the surroundings. The tables were nicely arranged and the food was of the best.

The next speaker was Dr. H. C. Mosely, who in a response to the toast, "Hardinsburg's Progress," fittingly alluded to the growth of the city and its surroundings. Remarks were made by other gentlemen present to the edification and delectation of the whole company.

The Hardinsburg Fish and Game Club has but fairly commenced its career, but it can be truthfully said that at the first reception given by them at their annual reunion, there was displayed a bit of elegance and genuine hospitality seldom witnessed in a place of this size.

The members of the club were all present and were as follows: Morris Eakridge, C. E. Haswell, W. F. Hook, T. J. Hook, J. B. Cox, Clair Board and T. A. McGill, Jr. The guests present were as follows: F. B. Board, J. N. C. Mosely, Morris Eakridge and wife, C. E. Board and wife, C. E. Haswell and wife, Clayton Board, J. E. What is Good Baking Powder.

It is a well known fact that cake made of ammonia is used by bakers in the preparation of the finest and most wholesome bread and cake, and has been from time immemorial. It is among the oldest and at the same time most beneficial constituents of baking powder. It is all evolved in gas by the heat of the oven, and leaves no trace of itself in the food, and it is this that gives it the great value as a leavening agent in the opinions of the physicians.
